1. Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a signal processing device, an image forming apparatus, a signal processing method, and a computer-readable recording medium. 2. Description of the Related Art An image forming apparatus such as a printer, a copying machine, a facsimile machine, or a multifunction machine having functions of the printer, the copying machine, the facsimile machine, and the multifunction machine is installed at an office. The image forming apparatus includes a motor for a paper feeding device or a motor for a developing device or a motor for a transfer device. However, when electric power is supplied to the motor, electric current is also supplied to other circuits in the image forming apparatus. Therefore, when the electric power is supplied to the motor, it is not easy to suppress an increase in electric current caused by an effect from the other circuits. For example, there is a possibility that a paper jam occurs due to an increase in electric current. To prevent this, the electric power is supplied to the motor when necessary, and an electric current is suppressed from increasing during the electric power is supplied. Therefore, electric power is not supplied to the motor when the electric power is not necessary. As a result, a large amount of electric power is not supplied to the motor, thereby suppressing an increase in electric current. However, there is a case where a paper jam occurs or maintenance of the image forming apparatus is necessary due to a problem of the motor. In this case, it is not possible to prevent an increase in electric current if the electric power is not supplied to the motor. Therefore, it is necessary to supply the electric power to the motor while suppressing an increase in electric current. To cope with this, for example, there is known a method in which the power supply is switched by a signal input from a control panel or a control apparatus, thereby performing a so-called “spoofing operation” in which the power supply to the motor is switched (see Japanese Patent Application Laid-open No. 2006-47386). In the method of switching the power supply, a power supply command signal is continuously input from the control panel or the control apparatus while the motor is not operating, and a power supply switching signal is continuously input from the control panel or the control apparatus. Accordingly
